

Seniority System Is Sidestepped

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional reform bill modernizing crummy legislative machinery but sidestepping demands for modification of the seniority system has been readied for House action.

The measure would lift the ban on radio-television coverage of House committee hearings, eliminate the 25-cent fee for Capitol tours, give page boys a dormitory and establish August as congressional vacation month.

But it falls far short of the reforms demanded by many members and proposed by a joint Senate-House committee last year.

Proposals for new and higher restrictions on lobbying were abandoned, as was any attempt to weaken the grip of the seniority system on the House. And rules changes that would have cut into the power of committee chairman either were rejected or greatly watered down.

"We're political realists," said Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., chairman of the special subcommittee on reorganization that has been working on the bill since May. "We want something that can pass."

As a result the subcommittee has produced a bill that would make some concessions to the modern era but leave most operations pretty much where they are now.

Besides recognizing television and radio as news media with a right to cover House affairs, the bill would pave the way for computers to do some of the paperwork that an ever-growing work force has had a hard time keeping up with.

"If Congress ever sinks," said Sisk at a news conference describing the bill, "it will be under the load of paper piling up here."

The bill also would expand research forces available to members and committees, and would provide for appropriating funds a year in advance to end the current time lag between budget requests and funding.

Plans to Wean Folks Off Welfare Onto Jobs in Economy Move

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told Congress today President Nixon's plan to wean people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls will strengthen the economy.

"This is not a proposal for a guaranteed minimum income," Shultz told the House Ways and Means Committee.

"Work is a major feature of this program," he said of Nixon's proposal for a family assistance minimum of $1,600 a year, with most family heads required to register for work or job training.

Shultz said a pioneer Labor Department project called the Work Incentive Program already has shown the idea will work.

The Secretary opposed demands of organized labor that the federal government become the "employer of last resort" for those who can't find jobs in the private economy.

He said Nixon's family assistance plan provides incentives both for recipients, who can keep the first $60 plus a graduated percentage of their earnings, and for the government, which will benefit by reduced welfare payments.

Provision for child care centers also will provide an incentive for parents to go to work, he said. The present Work Incentive Program with 13,000 parents enrolled shows the concept is "very promising," Shultz said.

"Most encouraging of all is the fact that mothers are volunteering," he said.

Speaking against AFL-CIO proposals to make the government "employer of last resort,"

President does not respond, there will be a second moratorium."

Leaders of the protest said they would continue "until the boys come home," with two days of demonstrations next month, three in December, four in January.

The large Eastern cities, traditionally the center of antiwar activity, had the largest turnouts. Boston police estimated 90,000 persons gathered on the Common, while 22,000 assembled at the Washington Monument and New York City had three rallies of more than 10,000.

But the scope of the moratorium was reflected across the nation. For example, in Iowa about 11,000 persons protested in various locations; in the State of Washington, an estimated 20,000 took part; in Arkansas, about 4,000 rallied in Little Rock.

Americans abroad and foreign students demonstrated in London, Paris, Rome, Brussels, Vienna, Tokyo, Dublin, Copenhagen and Bogota, Columbia. About 15 infantrymen fighting in South Vietnam wore black armbands to show their support for the protest.

In Oregon, Arkansas and Alaska, governors met with dissidents to hear their grievances. Alaska Gov. Keith Miller told a high school audience, "If we can honestly discuss our differences of opinion in the open here at home, then our chances to achieve an honorable settlement of the Vietnam war will be greatly enhanced."

Miller said he supported President Nixon's Vietnam policies but thought the moratorium "demonstrates the greatness of America."

The antiwar activity even extended to the World Series in New York, where the Mets beat the Baltimore Orioles after a dispute on whether the flag should be flown at full-staff or half-staff.

Shultz said: "Government should assume a responsibility for maintaining a healthy economy that produces enough jobs, and commit itself to preparing people to fill those jobs. We want no work inventing system that offers a way around this basic responsibility."

He said the Labor Department estimates that 1.1 million of the 5 million family heads expected to be covered by the program will be required to register for work or training. Another 1.8 million of the working poor, to be brought under the program, will already have full-time jobs, he said. He also anticipated a substantial number of voluntary registrations for job training.

Shultz was the second Cabinet officer to take the stand this week in support of the $4.4-billion welfare overhaul.

Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch plugged for the program Wednesday.

Offshore Oil Leasing Is Resumed

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel today announced resumption of federal offshore oil leasing which has been suspended since a well polluted the Santa Barbara Channel off California last February.

During the leasing moratorium which began last Feb. 20, Hickel imposed strict new regulations for drilling on federal offshore lands.

Hickel said a sale off Louisiana, suspended since February, will be held Dec. 16.

Another sale, off western Louisiana "will probably be held sometime during the first half of next year," he said. And a sale off Alaska is under consideration for the second half of 1970.

Hickel revealed the plans in a speech prepared for the Louisiana Gulf Coast jolt Exposition here.

Hickel told oilmen he did not agree with complaints against his policy of holding oil companies absolutely responsible for cleaning up any pollution from offshore operations.

War Deaths Remain at Low Level

By GEORGE ESPEY
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The total of American battlefield deaths in Vietnam last week remained near the lowest levels of the past three years, and enemy losses fell to their lowest point in a year. But South Vietnamese casualties climbed sharply.

The allied commands reported 82 Americans, 384 troops of the Saigon government and 1,687 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in action. Another 573 Americans and 1,000 South Vietnamese troops were reported wounded.

It was the third successive week that the total of American dead was less than 100. The total the week before was 64, the lowest in nearly three years, while government casualties that week were 209 killed and 681 wounded.

The weekly casualty reports reflected a trend in the past 3½ months of generally decreasing

American battlefield deaths, while the total of South Vietnamese dead has outnumbered the Americans each week for the past five months.

U.S. spokesmen said this shows that South Vietnamese regulars and militiamen are taking over more of the fighting.

"The South Vietnamese are generally getting into the act," said one officer. "They are pursuing the enemy and taking on a good bit of the fighting."

The weekly casualty report raised the reported total of American battlefield deaths to 38,969 since Jan. 1961, and the total wounded to 254,847. The enemy dead reported in that period total 560,908.

The allied communiques today again reported only light, scattered action, most of it in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon and along the infiltration corridors running south from the Cambodian border toward Saigon.

South Vietnamese headquarters said government infantrymen and marines killed 38 enemy soldiers and smashed what appeared to be a Viet Cong propaganda center in three clashes in the delta. A spokesman said there were no government casualties in two of the fights and only light losses in the third. One government unit captured a television set, three amplifiers, a microphone, six loudspeakers, three reels of film and 11 sets of documents.

U.S. fighter-bombers killed 25 enemy soldiers and destroyed 19 bunkers in a strike 34 miles northwest of Saigon U.S. headquarters said.

More Cold Is Moving Into Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
More cold, crisp fall weather is forecast for Arkansas as additional cool air was moving into the state today behind a rapidly moving cold front.

By sunset today, this front is expected to extend from the Great Lakes region through eastern Tennessee to the Texas Gulf Coast.

Arkansas can expect generally cool temperatures and fair weather Friday.

High temperatures Wednesday ranged from 64 at Pine Bluff to 73 at Fort Smith.

Town of 450 Already Has 6 War Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Beallsville, Ohio, has sent 21 young men to Vietnam out of its total population of 450. Six have been killed; six are still there.

"There was not much said about it," Mayor Ben Gramlich said Wednesday of Vietnam Moratorium Day. "We gave the lives of six boys. We think we should back the boys now in Vietnam the same as we backed the others."

In Dearborn, Mich., which has lost 52 native sons in the Vietnam war, 400 people gathered on the City Hall steps to hear Mayor Orville Hubbard read the names of the war dead.

Hubbard said Dearborn, a city of about 120,000 has given its youths at twice the national rate. Hubbard has sponsored two citywide votes on the war: in 1968 there were 20,000 votes for an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal and 16,000 supporting the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy. This reversed a 1966 vote in which the outcome was just the opposite.

Wednesday's ceremony was sober and respectful, with no public speeches. Women made up most of the crowd.

Beallsville once asked the Defense Department through Rep. Clarence E. Miller, a Republican, not to send any more Beallsville soldiers into combat. The request was denied.

Moratorium Day passed quietly in Ontonagon County, Michigan, where officials say the eight local youths killed constitute a higher percentage of losses than any other county in the nation.

The county has a population of 10,584.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The three major television networks devoted most of their early evening news programs to Wednesday's Moratorium Day activities. But the special programs arrived late when the viewing audience was likely to be comparatively small—NBC and CBS at 11:30 and ABC's wrapup after midnight.

The late hour did give the network news staff a chance to put the pros and cons of the day into some balance and they also were able to use material gathered late in the day.

Generally, however, the late shows contained little that was not covered in more compact form in the early news periods. In the early evening David Brinkley kicked off NBC's news program by emphasizing that the demonstrations calling for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam were "big but not enormous... substantial displays but not enormous." Maybe, but they certainly looked huge in the accompanying pictures.

Walter Cronkite of CBS, as well as Brinkley and ABC's Frank Reynolds, repeatedly pointed out that "not all were in favor" and each devoted some time to the opposition. But mostly the programs concentrated on the protests.

Especially apt seemed Howard K. Smith's quotation from Harry S. Truman that it was characteristic that "the critics be heard more than those who would support policy," followed by cautioning that the day of demonstrations and counter-demonstrations "has not told us which is the nation's will."

Cronkite with Harry Reasoner presided over CBS' late night roundup. Frank McGee handled the anchorman's job for NBC. The shows surveyed the more dramatic moments of the day—the Washington march toward the White House, the candle-lit gathering of crowds in mid-Manhattan after dark.

Both networks rounded up spokesmen for various viewpoints. Neither, however, was able to answer the question in most people's minds—how large a segment of public opinion the protesters represent.

NBC's "Monte Hall" had a radical and not particularly happy change of pace, presented an hour of live coverage of the Country Music Association awards from Nashville, Tenn.

With Ernie Ford as master of ceremonies, it turned out to be a sort of Johnny Cash festival—the singer won half the awards, including "Entertainer of the Year" and "Male Vocalist of the Year."

Like most awards shows, it dragged along through the tiring lull envelopes and heartfelt thanks. This one had the added disadvantage of being confined to a very special field with a very special body of devotees.

Hope Star SPORTS

Stakes Higher Than Ratings Friday Night

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Butterflies reign in the Hope Bobcats' midsections today, before tomorrow night's clash with the mighty Fairview Cardinals at 7:30 p.m. in Camden.

Actually, the match will pit the No. 6 and No. 12 ranked teams in Arkansas Class AA schools, but the stakes are much higher than that.

Everyone is lauding the unbeaten Arkadelphia Badgers as the team to beat in Class AA and surely in 4-AA, and only Fairview and Hope have the chance to disturb that rating. Therefore, tomorrow's winner could beat Arkadelphia for the 4-AA West championship, leaving the Badgers penniless.

And both Hope and Fairview should give the peak performances of the season thus far against each other.

Under Coach George Branch, the Cardinals have turned into a winner, going 11-1 with the 4-AA title in 1967, and coming back 9-2 a year ago. They are 4-1 again in '68 with an offense averaging better than 35 points a game, and a hard-hitting defense led by linebackers Jimmy Harris and Kenny Patterson.

Offensively, Fairview mostly will line up in a slot with regular, I, and strong backfield sets. The quarterback is cocky Lewis Pryor, a 155-pound senior with a deceptively good passing arm and shifty running ability which makes him the kick returner.

Harris, the All-Stater, is a 185-pound fullback who might carry the ball as much as 30 times a game, especially now that the Cards have lost tailback Perry Johnson to appendicitis. He (Harris) is the backbone of the Fairview attack, and will be a target for the Hope defenders.

It is not certain who the replacement for Johnson will be, but it could be Paul Gillespie, a 150-pound junior with little playing experience. In the slot is Dale Suel, a former end with good size (6-0, 165) who is replacing the departed Steve Johnson.

Fairview has a tremendously large offensive line, and they will flip-flop the guards and tackles to the strong and weak sides. Another potential All-Stater and a sure college prospect is tight end Mike Green, a big 6-6½, 210-pound senior with sure hands.

Beside Green at weakside tackle is Roy Wood, a junior who carries his 200 pounds with good speed. Junior Steve Crumpler is a fine one at 165 on his weakside guard spot, where he often pulls to lead sweeps with Harris and slotback Dale Suel.

Jimmy Reynolds, a 168-pound senior who hasn't played much before this year, has taken over the center spot and done a fine job so far on opposing nose guards.

The strong side of the line is truly powerful, with senior guard Bobby Marshall (205) and Dale Wheelington (200) opening the gaps in defenses. At a glance this group may seem large, but they are even bigger in person.

At the slot end is senior Johnny Watson, a scrappy 180-pounder converted from center, where he started for two years. Watson is not widely known for his statistics, but he does have fine coordination and good speed and hands.

That is the offense that averages over 35 points a game, and is cocky enough to score a couple on just confidence over a weaker team.

On defense Fairview runs the monster exactly like the Bobcats do. However, they will try often to get the passer with an eight-man charge while leaving the short passing zones open.

Watson and Green are the ends, and both are aggressive and hard to cut down on a play in their direction. Wheelington joins Mike Sevier, a senior 205-pounder, at the tackles to make for some size comparable to Hope's front.

At noseman is Jerald Jones, a fierce hitting 185-pound junior who should have a real battle with Bobcat center Randy Wright. The two clashed in junior high, and Randy suffered a broken hand.

Mrs. Seaver Is Queen of the Mets

By SHEILA MORAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Seaver fell into the arms of a friend and cried.

"I feel like I pitched it myself," said this tall blue-eyed beauty after her husband won the fourth game of the World Series.

The people at the game cheered her as if she had. If Tom Seaver has become king of the Mets because of his pitching, beautiful Nancy has become queen. Fans pressed around her in such numbers for autographs or just a look during the game that ushers were dispatched to her box near the Met dugout to chase them away.

Nancy Seaver, 24, gets nervous every time Tom pitches. She takes it harder than he does when he loses and when he wins, which is most of the time, she takes it in stride.

On this day, which meant so much to the winningest pitcher in baseball this year with 25 victories, his wife sat on the edge of her chair, her hands gripped together on her lap. When the Mets were at bat, and there was a long hit or a spectacular play, she stood on her chair and waved her blue and white Met pennant.

She wore a brown knit pants suit—no coat—and shivered as the shadows lengthened. A friend handed her a raincoat which she used as a blanket.

She behaves much the same way at every game, win or lose. "When they hit him, they hit me," she said after Seaver lost the opening Series game.

In Wednesday's game, the Baltimore Orioles hit Tom Seaver just three times through eight innings and he was working on a 1-0 shutout. But then, in the ninth, the Orioles got two more hits and a run to tie it up.

"I feel like someone broke my balloon," she said. "I especially want him to do well because he lost the first game. I can't even find words to say what winning would mean to him."

When J. C. Martin came in to bat for Seaver with two on base in the 10th, Nancy sared straight ahead. She pressed her hands against the raincoat. Martin bunted, the Baltimore pitcher threw wildly to first, the winning run scored.

Nancy Seaver grabbed hold of a friend and the tension poured out of her.

Stater and big Kenny Patterson (205) as a good possibility. Both carry the responsibility of stopping plays at the line of scrimmage while containing and keying on certain backs.

Dale Suel is a fine one to have at the monster spot, for he can read the offense's strengths at a glance and call the defensive maneuvers.

Prior holds down the safety position at the core of the secondary, and returnee senior Johnny Kelley (155) has the speed to cut down runners who might break loose. With the illness to Perry Johnson, Stephen Johnson has moved in well as the team's only starting soph at defensive halfback.

Stephen is an extremely fast 155-pounder who also backs up Pryor at quarterback and could be inserted for passing situations.

That, ladies and gentlemen, is a summary of the Fairview Cardinals, who reportedly are planning to beat the Hope Bobcats tomorrow night. Well, our folks have exactly the opposite notion to the same degree, but the difference is the Cards are already on top and Hope is anxious for a role as king of the mountain.

Anyone who makes the journey to Camden tomorrow night will see Hope and Fairview play an emotionally nerve-shattering but typical 4-AA contest. And, it says right here, the winner will beat Arkadelphia for the Western Divisional championship. Who wants it the worst?

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock McClellan and Jonesboro may not decide the Class AAA Eastern Division championship Friday night at Jonesboro, but the winner will take a giant step forward.

Neither has lost a game in Class AAA and Jonesboro is 5-0 for the season.

However, McClellan's more difficult schedule could be the difference. The Lions were beaten by Little Rock Hall and tied by El Dorado, both Class AAAA teams.

On the other hand, Jonesboro had to struggle with both Jacksonville and Little Rock Parkview.

McClellan is ranked sixth in the state, one notch above Jonesboro.

Jonesboro has the home field advantage, but McClellan should have benefitted from its outings against top-flight competition.

Little Rock Central came within two yards of defeating top-ranked Fort Smith Northside last week, but the Tigers have got to forget about that game.

Central collides with North Little Rock Southwest Friday night and must win to keep its Class AAAA hopes alive. Southwest gave Hall a scare and has fine offensive weapons in running back Bruce Waters and quarterback Ricky Porter.

However, the Tigers have some weapons of their own. CENTRAL 20, NLR SOUTH-WEST 12.

Texarkana and Fort Smith Southside meet in an important Class AAA Western Division contest.

Southside, the state's fifth-ranked team, is unbeaten in conference play. Texarkana, which has upped its mark to 4-2, has lost one conference game.

Palmer Is Facing Big Challenge

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer faced one of the greatest challenges of his fantastic career today when he set out in the first round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

It could be that his golfing future hangs in the balance. Can he come back? Now 40 and a nonwinner for more than a year, can the game's greatest attraction once again recapture the magic that made his name a household word?

Sahara could provide the answer.

Many observers thought Palmer was through when an arthritic right hip forced him out of the PGA Championship at Dayton in August. He had just struggled in with a pain-racked 82, highest round of his professional career. His game was in tatters, his age advancing and his health questionable.

But Palmer vowed he would be back. He didn't say when because at the time he didn't know. He just went home to Latrobe, Pa., for rest and treatment of the hip ailment that last 12 months?

Mets at Door of World Championship

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets went into today's fifth game of the World Series on the threshold of their first world championship—and nothing about the amazing Mets is more amazing than the way they finally got both feet on the doorstep to the throne room.

For the implausible champions of the National League got there Wednesday on a double lost in the sun, a bunt that didn't roll 10 feet and a wild throw toward first. That combination gave the Mets a 10th inning run and a 2-1 victory over Baltimore's befuddled Orioles.

So the Mets, who turned the baseball world upside down this year by making the final team standings look topsy-turvy, took a 3-1 edge over the heavily favored Orioles and the opportunity to wrap up the Series today in front of Shea Stadium's banner-bearing fans.

Once holders of the world record for ineptness, the Mets have made the amazing transition to the top on a combination of solid pitching, timely hitting — and plays that have provoked the gag-line that "God is a Mets fan."

Look what happened in that almost unbelievable 10th inning when the Orioles handed them the keys to the throne room.

It began when catcher Jerry Grote sent a short fly to left that was ticketed for an out.

"I thought the ball was hit harder than it was," said left fielder Don Buford, "and I broke back to keep from giving up an extra base hit. Then I lost the ball in the glare and didn't pick it up until it got above the sun."

By that time, only shortstop Mark Belanger had a shot at the falling fly as he raced toward the point of impact with his back to the plate. But the ball fell beyond the reach of his outstretched glove as Grote stood on second base.

Rod Gaspar went in to run for Grote and Al Wels was given an intentional walk.

At this juncture, it was time for some strategy, and it's possible that the loss of Manager Earl Weaver—in the third inning he became the first manager ejected from a World Series game in 34 years—may have contributed to what followed.

That may never be known. What is known is that coach Billy Hunter, who took over for Weaver, ordered pitcher Dick Hall to issue an intentional walk to Al Wels and then brought in Pete Richert to pitch to pinch hitter J.C. Martin.

Martin's orders from Manager Gil Hodges were simply: Bunt—and keep it down the first base line away from Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' brilliant third baseman. Martin complied on the first pitch, the ball trickling to the lip of the infield grass.

Now Gaspar was running and two Orioles—Richert and catcher Ellie Hendricks—were racing toward the ball, brushing against each other in the indecision of the moment.

"I called for the ball all the way," Hendricks said, "and maybe Pete did too. But will all the crowd noise, I don't know. The play was out in front of me."

It was out in front of a record crowd of 57,367 too, and they yelled and shouted and cheered as Richert grabbed the ball, hurried his throw and hit Martin in the left wrist. The ball ricocheted into the first base hole while Gaspar raced home with the winning run.

The responses to what had just happened varied.

"The ball just happened to hit J.C.," said the cool Hodges. "I'm glad it did."

"I hope," said Richert, "his wrist's broken."

"I don't even know who threw the ball," said Martin, "but he made a good play because the ball had back spin. I knew they had no play so my job was to get to first. The ball hit me on

Weaver Just Same as in Early Season

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Series, with prestige and a big pot of gold on the line, is the goal of all major league baseball teams. It's the annual showcase of the sport.

But for Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles, managing a World Series game is the same as managing during the regular season or even in an exhibition.

"Just because it's a World Series, I can't change," Weaver said. "I manage the way I manage." The comment was made Wednesday after Weaver had been ejected from the game by umpire Shag Crawford, and the Orioles had lost 2-1 in 10 innings to fall behind 3-1 in the best-of-7 series.

Weaver was ejected with dramatic suddenness after he emerged from the dugout in the third inning, following a warning by Crawford after the Orioles protested a called strike on Mark Belanger.

"We all yelled in unison," Weaver said, "and I yelled the loudest. Then Crawford came over and shook his finger at us. I went out to ask him what he said."

Weaver said he was told he was thrown out for protesting balls and strikes—which is permitted from the bench—but contended all he said after emerging from the dugout was "Shag" about three times as he walked behind the umpire.

In the postgame interviews, Weaver said he did nothing to warrant the quick ejection and indicated it was a bit unusual in view of a pre-Series directive from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"The commissioner told us at a meeting," Weaver said, "that the umpires would bend over backwards to keep us in the game, and asked us to cooperate by warning our players not to use profanity."

"We didn't use any profanity," the Baltimore manager said. "I never use profanity when talking to umpires." Crawford confirmed that he hadn't.

Asked if the ejection, the first in a World Series since 1935, would change his tactics, Weaver said: "I'll holler again if the same situation comes up. I'm rooting for us."

Third base coach Billy Hunter took over direction of the Orioles.

"I don't think I could have done anything on the bench to change the result," he said. "Maybe I could have hollered, 'come on, let's get some runs.'"

After the Orioles had lost their third straight decision following an opening game victory, Weaver met briefly with the players before reporters were admitted.

"The room was fairly quiet—after all, I wouldn't expect the players to come in cheering after losing," Weaver said. "But a couple of them also said some things after I finished. We're not dead yet."

That was against Baylors, when Burnett carried 35 times for 133 yards and three touchdowns.

"I've never seen a better short-yardage runner," said Coach Frank Broyles. "Bill never lets a defensive man get his shoulder pads underneath him. He twists his body at the last second and he always goes forward again after contact."

"He bites, he claws, he jumps, he does everything for that extra six inches," Broyles said. "Very few people have that knack and are able to protect the ball."

Burnett was the workhorse of Arkansas' 10-1 team in 1968, carrying 207 times during the regular season for 859 yards. He scored 16 touchdowns during the season and lost only one fumble.

"There's really no way you can work on something like that," Burnett said. "I have never concentrated on going forward and not fumbling."

"It's like playing golf and coming to a water hole," he said. "If you start worrying about getting in that dang water, nine times out of 10 you'll get in it. I just don't worry about fumbling. I guess it's just instinct."

It may be a family trait.

Bill is the third son of Clell Burnett to play for the Razorbacks. His oldest brother, Bobby, set a one-season school record when he rushed for 947 yards during the Razorbacks' 10-0 campaign of 1965. And, he didn't lose one fumble during his 232 carries. He became the American Football League rookie of the year but a knee injury later sidelined him.

If Bill continues anywhere near his current pace he's a cinch to crack the Arkansas career record of 1,788 yards set by Henry Moore during the mid 1950s.

Burnett now has more than 1,200 yards with six games remaining this season and the entire 1970 season.

He says, however, that he has no personal goals.

"As long as we win, that's what is important," he said. "I wouldn't be satisfied with any records I set if we were losing."

Burnett says his father, who coached high school football before a heart ailment forced his retirement, had a great influence on the brothers.

"He always took a lot of interest in us, but he never did push us," Burnett said. "That made us want to do things that would make him proud of us."

Burnett almost didn't wind up at Arkansas. An assistant coach offered him a one-year, make-good scholarship and he turned it down.

"Then Coach Broyles called me down to his home one Sunday afternoon and told me he would give me a four-year scholarship," Burnett said.

Broyles will never regret that day.

Koosman Still Has Chance for a Sweep

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Koosman's astonishing pre-World Series prediction was a four-game sweep for the New York Mets.

The Mets lost the Series opener at Baltimore last Saturday, but Koosman, their strapping southpaw pitching ace, still had a chance today to make good his boast.

"Yes, I remember distinctly predicting four straight," said Koosman, who went after the Series clincher in a mound matchup against Orioles left-hander Dave McNally. "But I didn't say the first four. I just said four straight."

Koosman beat McNally 2-1 last Sunday at Baltimore, holding the Orioles hitless for six innings as the Mets squared the Series at one game apiece.

They won 5-0 Tuesday at Shea Stadium and then squeezed out a 2-1 10-inning victory Wednesday on Jerry Grote's pop fly double, pinch hitter J.C. Martin's sacrifice bunt and a throwing error by relief pitcher Pete Richert.

"I think we can beat 'em tomorrow," said Koosman, surrounded by newsmen in a corner of the surprisingly serene New York clubhouse after the Mets' third straight Series victory.

"I can't say I'm familiar with the Orioles' hitters because I've only faced them once so far. But they'll be more familiar to me than when I went out Sunday."

Koosman had a six-day layoff before facing the Orioles the first time. He felt more confident about today's start after taking his normal three days off between assignments.

"I should have better control now, and with better control I think I'll have better rhythm and more speed," he said.

The 25-year-old fireballer thought the brisk, sub-60 degree weather predicted for today's fifth game also would help him. "I'd much rather pitch in cold weather," he said. "I don't perspire, and I don't lose weight. If it's 50 degrees, I won't mind."

The Mets, caught from behind in the ninth inning Wednesday, took the heat off Tom Seaver with the help of a sensational catch by right fielder Ron Swoboda, then pushed over the winning run in the 10th.

After Grote's leadoff fly ball fell safely in short left field—as Don Buford took a backward step and could not recover in time to reach it—the Orioles walked Al Wells intentionally.

Martin, making his Series debut as a pinch hitter for Seaver, then bunted up the first base line and was struck on the left wrist by Richert's throw, the ball rolling toward second base as pinch runner Rod Gaspar sped home from second.

Hodges said the tight-squeeze victory made him feel "much better than yesterday... one game better," about the Mets' chances of winning the Series. "We've got Koosman going now, and anytime you've got either him or Seaver pitching for you, you feel you'll win."

Rangers Turn Temper Hot for Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New York Rangers, ice-cold for two periods, turned temper hot and wound up with their first victory of the young National Hockey League season.

New York got hit by three Minnesota goals in the first period Wednesday night in a game in which 20 penalties were called, got one back in the second and then ripped home three in the third, two within 26 seconds, for a 4-3 victory.

In other NHL action, Detroit topped Chicago 4-1, Pittsburgh tied Philadelphia 3-3, Montreal deadlocked Toronto 2-2, Boston blasted Oakland 6-0 and St. Louis downed Los Angeles 4-1.

Brad Park launched New York's third-period barrage by beating Minnesota goalie Cesar Maniago at 7:34. Donnie Marshall, who scored the Rangers' goal in the second period, connected at 9:12 and then Vic Hadfield scored 26 seconds later.

Minnesota's first-period goals against Ed Giacomin were by Barry Gibbs, Bill Goldsworthy and Ray Cullen.

Detroit also got three final-period goals in its victory over Chicago. Frank Mahovlich got the first one, and the others were by Gordy Howe, now in his 23rd NHL season, and Bruce MacGregor. Chicago's Gil Marotte and Detroit's Wayne Connelley traded first-period goals. Jim Morrison's 15-foot shot past goalie Doug Favell with-

Controversial Play May Aid Orioles

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The play that beat them in the fourth game may turn out to be just the thing to revive the Baltimore Orioles against the amazing New York Mets in baseball's World Series.

"I'm going to hang this Associated Press photo in the clubhouse today and it might be just what we need to get started again," said Baltimore pitcher Pete Richert Wednesday night hours after the Mets had won 2-1 in 10 innings to take a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

The play that produced the winning Met run came with two on and none out. Pinch hitter J.C. Martin bunted in front of the plate. Richert dashed off the mound, grabbed the ball and threw to first base. The ball hit Martin on the left wrist and bounced away for an error, permitting pinch runner Rod Gaspar to score from second.

Few in the crowd of 57,367 noted at the time that Martin was running on the inside of the foul line in violation of rule 6.05 k and that therefore the Mets won the game on an illegal play. It was not until an Associated Press photo showed Martin running on the inside of the foul line that a controversy developed at press headquarters and continued far into the night.

The picture showed Martin a few steps from first base, with the ball, thrown by Richert, in the air close to Martin. First base umpire Lou DiMuro is looking at the bag and Shag Crawford, the home plate umpire, is looking on from near the plate.

In the clubhouse after the game, Richert had said he would like to see a picture of the play. "I don't know if Martin was inside the foul line while running towards first. I tried to throw the ball inside the line."

Bill McKinley, a former American League umpire, saw the picture and commented: "The runner is not out in this case unless he interferes with the throw. If the first base ump is looking at first base as DiMuro is doing it should be up to the home plate umpire to make the call."

There was no comment from Crawford or DiMuro. Neither was there any from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Johnny Murphy, vice president and general manager of the Mets, saw the photo and declared "it appears that Martin was a few inches to the left of the foul line. I don't think there's any problem, though. There was no interference."

just a little over four minutes left in the game gained Pittsburgh its tie with Philadelphia. Dean Prentice and Brian Hextall got Pittsburgh's other goals, while Larry Hillman, Earl Heiskala and Guy Gendron scored for Philadelphia.

Montreal tied Toronto when Ralph Backstrom scored in the third period about two minutes after Toronto's Paul Henderson had tallied. Brit Selby of Toronto and Mickey Redmond of Montreal scored in the opening period.

Bobby Orr set up three goals in Boston's battering of Oakland. The Boston scorers were Ron Murphy, Johnny Bucyk, Ed Westfall, Fred Stanfield, Phil Esposito and rookie Jim Lof- past goalie Doug Favell with-

First Team Refuses to Quit Early

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles let the first team unit work early Wednesday as the fourth-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks continued football practice, but they wouldn't.

Instead, the starters went into Barnhill Fieldhouse and worked out lifting weights. "This work was on their own," Broyles said. "They want to improve and this is the week to improve if there ever was one."

Arkansas will be idle this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State.

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899—Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880—Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.
1883—Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883—Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.

1884—Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by Betts, J.L. Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916—Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their news-daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
—but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926—Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.

1927—Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929—C.E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957—Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969—With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president —balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

"Year Without Summer"
Literally, there never really was a summerless year. The year 1816 was popularly known as the "year without a summer" because of the frosts and snow in every month of the year in the northern states.

Good Ventilation a Must When Exposed to Gases

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What harmful effects would result from chronic exposure to natural gas, carbon monoxide or sewer gas
in one's home?

A—Natural gas used in cooking consists of methane or marsh gas (which is harmful only to the extent that it replaces oxygen in the inspired air) and a small amount of carbon monoxide, which is highly toxic in that it replaces the oxygen in your blood.

Sewer gas is a mixture of gases, the most toxic of which is hydrogen sulfide.
This gas smells like rotten eggs and a concentration of 20 parts per million will cause some irritation of the eyes. A concentration of 10 ppm is the upper limit allowable for prolonged exposure.
There is no danger from any of these gases in a well-ventilated room.

Q—I have very weak
ankles and I sprain them repeatedly. How can I strengthen them?

A—The best way to strengthen your ankles is by walking. Take a brisk walk for 15 minutes a day and gradually increase it to 1½ or two hours a day.

Q—Will surgery help pulled tendons in my elbow?

After treatment, will my arm be as strong as before?
A—Although this condition is best referred to an orthopedic surgeon, he will be more likely to treat your elbow with an injection of hy-drocortisone or an elbow brace than any type of operation. Return of the joint to its original strength may take many months.

Q—I've been taking
Norinyl for about a year.
One month after I started it
I developed Raynaud's disease. Could it have been caused by the drug?

A—Raynaud's disease may be caused by taking this contraceptive for several years.

In your case, I don't think the drug was responsible.
People were getting Raynaud's disease for centuries before this type of drug was available. I would, however, advise discontinuing the drug since it may aggravate your disease. Your doctor will be able to recommend some other means of contracep-

$100 Reward!

For information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons who stole seven newspaper vending machines in downtown Hope the morning of Sept. 26 the undersigned newspapers will pay a cash reward of $100.

Information should be given either to the police or to the Hope Star office, and payment of the reward is guaranteed by Hope Star, which will reimburse for the other newspapers for their share.

All the stolen vending machines bear their newspaper names. Two were stolen from Arkansas Gazette;
two from Shreveport Times; and three from Texarkana Gazette.

Please help us track down the guilty persons.

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER

By TOM TIEDE
NEA War
Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—It was mid-afternoon, sticky hot, in the mid-section of Vietnam. The 25th Division had just begun an offensive sweep through some thing called the Ho Bo woods, northwest of Saigon. Sniper fire spit out from the brush. Now and then there was the crunch of an explosion. Dark figures stumbled back and forth between trees.

Then, from the point of the advance, the first casualty fell.

He was a Tiede runty figure twisting there on the ground. But he uttered no pain as an aid man and I pulled him out of the fire and into a clump of weeds.

I began taking some notes as the medic searched for the wound. He found two bullet holes in the man's side.

I asked how old he was.

"Seventeen," he said.

The victim blinked his eyes quickly. As a large gauze bandage was applied to his raw wound, he gripped and ungripped his fingers.

"Hey, man," he said, looking again at me, "don't call me a kid in your story, will you?"

The GI had no worry. I've never called any soldier a kid. Few reporters in Vietnam, in fact, have ever made this mistake.

Gen. William Westmoreland, who commanded war forces for more than three years, said it as well as anyone. "They (the current troops) are the best trained and ablest of men that I have ever commanded. I must say that I have been very proud to have served with them."

This isn't to say that of the nearly three million Americans who have served in Vietnam during the past 19 years (our first assistance troops arrived there in 1950) have all been gung-ho and full-speed-ahead about the controversial war itself. On the contrary, many have been opposed to the fighting and everything that brought it about.

But beyond personal opinions, and looking only at the quality of over-all soldiery performance, most experienced opinion is that Vietnam veterans, chiefly young people (18-25), have served nobly and well.

Despite all of the war's implications, troop morale has always been high. Desertion, goldbricking, paralysis have been minimal in Vietnam. I remember one trooper with the 1st Air Cavalry Division who tried to shoot his foot rather than go into combat. Fortunately, he missed, and later he confessed: "I'm ashamed. Can you imagine what the other guys would have thought?"

The "other guys" in Vietnam have perhaps been the single most important stimulus for U.S. troop effectiveness. For the sake of the "other guys" soldiers have committed acts of selflessness that beggar the imagination. Some examples:

—From the beginning, a basic Viet regulation has been "never leave a buddy behind." Countless thousands of lives have been risked, or lost, to oblige. There was the young sergeant with the 173rd Airborne Brigade, fighting in the Plain of Reeds. Four of his men were wounded and cut off. So by himself, over a period of two hours, the sergeant belted back into enemy territory and dragged out each casualty—including two who had died.

—Volunteers and re-volunteers for Vietnam duty have been, according to the Defense Department, "very high, very encouraging." Though the basic stint in the war (one year for most) has usually been hairy enough for a lifetime, especially for line troops, many thousands have volunteered for longer tours.

—Troop initiative, sometimes anemic in previous U.S. wars, has been the norm in Vietnam. Field commanders say that "constructive individualism" has been born in this war. They explain it by citing the fact troop leaders are younger and sharper than ever before (a new officer can be a captain today within two years service). They also say that smarter, healthier, more-aware enlisted men have filled the ranks. I remember one such man, only 19, with the 1st Division, who hooked his boot on the wires of a booby trap. Rather than panic, or call out and endanger his unit, he calmly located the explosive charge (a grenade), disengaged the wire and walked away. The examples of "men" at war in Vietnam are endless. I suppose the same can be said of any American conflict. But in this case, this war, the heroism and service is all the more remarkable and memorable because of the nature, the ugliness and frustration of the battle.

Gen. Westmoreland sums it all up well. He says, "I think our troops have all been heroes."

nonviolent means.

Nonviolence, in Mahatma Gandhi's definition, is not to be confused with cowardice, for it requires greater courage, he maintained. It means standing firm and asserting what one believes to be right, even in the face of violence. The real victory consists in persuading the opponent that one is right. Gandhi taught, and this is his philosophical legacy at the approaching 100th anniversary of his birth.

The perfect example of the triumph of moral right over brute force was Gandhi's trial for sedition in March, 1922, after he had written an anti-British article in the newspaper "Young India."

In his closing speech, Gandhi painted a damning picture of the British repression which had called forth the article. He then said that the trial had been a perfectly fair one, and that he was not asking for mercy. "The only course open to you, the judge," he said, "is either to resign your post, or to inflict on me the severest penalty if you believe that the system and the law you administer are just ones."

The judge and the prisoner bowed to each other. The judge said, "Even those who differ from you in politics look upon you as a man of high ideals and of noble and even saintly life." He then sent Gandhi to prison for six years.

Gandhi paid a high price for such moral ascendancy in the opinion of many. Even when free of prison walls, he led an ascetic life, giving up all personal possessions and renouncing all pleasure. A strict vegetarian, Gandhi lived principally on goat's milk (cow's milk was rejected because people treat cows cruelly). "If anybody said that I should die if I did not take beet tea or mutton even under medical advice, I would prefer death," he declared.

Perhaps Gandhi's finest contribution was his fight to win equality for the millions of "untouchables" who are the victims of India's tragic caste system. At the Gandhi ashram which I visited, the untouchables are treated as brothers. Gandhi called them Harijans, meaning "the people of God."

Some say that Gandhi died of a broken heart as much as of an assassin's bullet. He was opposed to the partition of the Indian subcontinent into the two nations of India and Pakistan. Afterwards he saw all that he stood for go up in the flames of Hindu-Muslim rioting. He seemed almost to welcome the Hindu fanatic who burst into his prayer meeting at Birla House, Delhi, on Jan. 30, 1948, and shot him.

One of the most touching mementoes of Gandhi now on exhibition at the British Museum is his wedding present to Queen Elizabeth: then a princess, in 1947. As Gandhi had no personal possessions, Earl Mountbatten suggested that he should spin the thread for a tablecloth. With Gandhi, spinning was not only a form of prayer, but it helped in the boycott of British cloth and thus strengthened the campaign for independence.

The tablecloth which Gandhi's great-nieces crocheted from the homespun thread has a floral pattern of roses. But as a reminder to the TURIN, Italy — (NEA) — When the world was larger and poorer, when nations contacted each other only on the battlefield or at formal diplomatic receptions, the natural diversity demanded originality.

Before the lights winked out all over Europe in the awkward period before World War I, the Mays of this planet never, never told the Gimbels. They wouldn't, even if they could.

As a good example of the Large World-Diversity theory, consider the international automobile industry in its early days when huge, heavy Fiat, Renaults, Mercedes, Daimlers, Rolls-Royces, Alfa-Romeos and Panhards rumbled along dusty roads. The cars were truly unique, perhaps because German engineers and designers seldom saw British motorcars, much less their designers, and Italian automen had little to do with their French confreres. It was both a matter of national pride and the lack of communications which forced individual nations to create automobiles in their own, very special, way.

The world today is a much smaller place—and this old cliché may well be the prime cause of the cookie-cutter cars which may soon flood the world.

Make this test if you're in doubt: Clip from your newspaper side views of perhaps a dozen automobiles, both foreign and domestic (make sure the foreign examples are the larger cars). After you've got them properly silhouetted, turn the pictures over, shuffle them, and see if you can identify each model. It's tough.

Dante Giacosa, chief engineer of Fiat, understands the problem but will disagree generally if asked if so-called international cars are basically similar.

"Although I am quite convinced that we European manufacturers still build automobiles that are different, at least in approach and purpose, European life is changing."

"Everybody travels these days and so there is an automatic influence, an international flavor. We can all be influenced. A clever idea in the United States can also be a clever idea in Italy, can it not? And vice versa?"

Giacosa suggests that economics may have an even greater bearing on the de-good deal in common. All of us are attempting to build more efficient automobiles. To do so, it is necessary to borrow.

Fiat has recently premiered its major assault on the I-car market, the six-cylinder, three-liter, 130 model, the largest Fiat ever built and, perhaps, the most expensive (price in Italy: about $5,000).

It is a handsome automobile, quiet, powerful, comfortable, efficient with plenty of trunk space, seating capacity and headroom. But, at first glance, it looks like a Mercedes. Or an Ambassador. Or a Peugeot. Or a BMW. Or a Volvo.

Clearly, it is the "international" car, a vehicle bland enough to be accepted by Frenchmen, Germans, Englishmen, Italians, Americans, etc. There may be a few Italian touches for old times' sake, but not enough to disturb world sales.

As we chatted, both warming to the subject, I became more and more convinced that, ultimately, only three automobiles will be produced for the world's consumers. There will be plenty of options, of course, but three basic forms: Cheap, medium-priced and expensive.

Fiat's Giacosa does not agree ("The tendency of man is always to find something a little different") but admits that eventual international auto safety regulations will tend to produce those cookie-cutter cars.

The only real difference in autos, in fact, will be the nameplates. The I-cars in Italy, say, will be Fiats. In Germany, Volkswagens or Mercedes. In the United States, Fords, Chevies, Plymouths and a few others. And so on.

In Britain, it's already happening. The basic Austin, Riley, Morris and Vandenplas are precisely the same except for the nameplate. The Bentley and Rolls-Royce are identical, except for the grilles.

Leaders Plan to Keep on With Marches

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some weary but elated, the youthful leaders of Moratorium Day have pledged to carry on the Vietnam protests "until the boys come home."
"If there is no change in Vietnam policy, if the President does not respond," said coordinator Sam Brown, "there will be a second moratorium."
The students, the long-haired, acne-scarred kids in tattered blue jeans and the ordinary citizens who joined them on Moratorium Day aren't going to let up until President Nixon gives "a firm public commitment to total withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam," Brown promised.

Plans call for two days of demonstrations in November, three in December, four in January. Already the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam has printed its new buttons: "Vietnam Strike Nov. 14," "March on Washington Nov. 15."

Before the last of the estimated 35,000 candle-bearing marchers completed Wednesday night's march to the White House, organizers of the anti-war movement faced reporters at the crowded mobilization headquarters in Washington.

"Oh, wow. It was spectacular," said Brown, the Harvard divinity school dropout who conceived Moratorium Day.

Bulletin boards in the shabby, eighth-floor office that had been a nucleus for the antiwar movement since mid-summer turned yellow with telegrams from participants in other cities.

"A quarter of a million people turned out in New York," announced Marge Skencar, one of the quartet who has coordinated efforts of the movement. "We had 100,000 in Boston and 30,000 in New Haven."

"Twenty thousand turned out in Chicago and no violence," "What was that Marge?" asked a reporter.

"No violence," she beamed. A miniskirted girl ran into the office and threw her arms around a reporter: "They're still marching. They're still marching out there. They're even picking up the litter."

Johnny Cash Wins About Everything

By NANCY SHIPLEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Johnny Cash, dressed like a Mississippi gambler, flicked a drop of sweat from his brow, grinned at the four awards stashed under his seat and made a fifth trip to the stage to compete a sweep of the Country Music Awards here Wednesday night.

Cash, a native of Arkansas, rushed onstage at the Grand Ole Opry House to receive the Entertainer of the Year award while the audience rose for a standing ovation.

It was Cash's second standing ovation of the night. He received the same when he accepted the award for Male Vocalist of the Year. And the audience roared as he took honors for his far-out "Boy Named Sue," as Single Record of the Year; and his No. 1 country music album, "Johnny Cash at San Quentin," chosen Album of the Year.

Cash teamed with his singer-composer wife, June Carter, to take Vocal Group of the Year laurels.

Cash defeated another Arkansas native, superstar Glen Campbell, in all five categories. Campbell won awards last year as top entertainer and male vocalist.

The CMA awards highlight the 44th anniversary celebration of the Grand Ole Opry, which continues through Saturday night's performance of the Opry.

Lovely, blonde Tammy Wynette was chosen Female Vocalist of the Year over Jeannie C. Riley, Loretta Lynn, Dolly Parton and Lynn Anderson. It was Miss Wynette's second year in a row to be chosen top female singer.

Chet Atkins, "Mr. Guitar," won Instrumentalist of the Year for the second time. Atkins was selected over Jerry Reed, Roy Clark, Floyd Cramer and Don Rich.

Funnyman Archie Campbell was named Comedian of the Year. The star of the "Hee-Haw" television series was chosen over Don Bowman and fellow "Hee-Haw" stars, Junior Samples, Sheb Wooley and Clark.

The Nashville Brass, a group led by trumpeter Danny Davis, walked away with the award for

Zodiac Killer Has Five to His Credit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I like killing people," boasts a weekend killer who calls himself Zodiac and numbers five San Francisco Bay area persons among his victims.
Martin Lee, city chief of detectives, said Wednesday the handwriting on a letter acknowledging the killing of a San Francisco taxi driver appears identical to that in notes telling of four other slayings.

In each case the letters from the "Zodiac Killer" have gone to newspapers and all have been marked with a crossed circle symbol like a rifle sight.
The latest started: "This is Zodiac speaking. I am the murderer of the taxi driver over by Washington St. and Maple St. last night, to prove this here is a blood stained piece of his shirt. I am the same man who did in the people in the North Bay area."

The enclosed piece of gray and white striped shirting matched the shirt of the cabbie, Paul Stine, 29, fatally shot in his cab Saturday night.

Instrumental Group of Band of the Year. The "Brass," a combination of horns with a Nashville rhythm section, won the title over Buck Owens' backup group, the Buckaroos; Bill Anderson's group, the Po' Boys; Porter Wagoner's Wagonmasters; Ernest Tubbs' Texas Troubadours and the Stonemans.
The CMA's Board of Electors named Gene Autry, the original singing cowboy, to the elite Country Music Hall of Fame. Autry joined 15 artists, promoters and recording and publishing executives, five of whom are living, in the Hall of Fame, established in 1961.

"Carroll County Accident," written by Bob Ferguson and performed by Porter Wagoner was Song of the Year. The pick was based on the performance as gauged by three publications.

Lottery Draft Gains Little Enthusiasm

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee that has shown little enthusiasm for President Nixon's lottery draft plan has indicated it will back the administration's idea of calling up 19-year-olds first.

Members of the special Armed Services subcommittee would give no details before sending recommendations on the lottery proposal to the full committee today.

But one source told a newsman, "You can quote the first paragraph of the President's list of priorities if you want to."
Nixon's first item called for a youngest-first draft call order "so that a young man would become less vulnerable rather than more vulnerable to the draft as he grows older."

Opponents of the lottery idea said Nixon already could carry out a youngest-first system without new legislation.

During five days of hearings, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey told the subcommittee the lottery would be the fairest system.

Under the Administration proposal, a late September or early October lottery would determine the order of the 365 birthdates in the following year for calling up 19-year-olds.

Men with the first birthdates drawn would likely be drafted the following January and men with the last ones drawn would be likely to escape the draft.

There are only two alternatives but neither is as good, the administration officials told the subcommittee.

One — which Nixon has indicated he will establish on his own if Congress does not approve the lottery — would let young men know their highest draft susceptibility would be near their 20th birthdays.

But they wouldn't know until the draft order was announced a month in advance what their chances were of being called, the officials said.

Griffith Says He's One of Best Fighters

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former welterweight and middleweight champion Emile Griffith smiled happily when a boxing observer said he and the present 147-pound titleholder, Jose Napoles, are two of the best fighters in the world today.

Griffith's manager, discoverer and father-figure, irrepressible Gil Clancy, standing by, didn't smile. Instead he bristled and blurted out:

"I resent anyone putting Griffith and Napoles in the same class!"

"Look who Emile has fought . . . Benny Paret, Luis Rodriguez, Dick Tiger, Nino Benvenuti. . .

"Napoles, who's he fought? Curtis Cokes. Cokes then an old man."

Napoles, of course, fought and knocked out Cokes, the first time to win the welterweight title in the Forum Feb. 15, again in a rematch June 29 in Mexico City.

Napoles, 29, from Mexico City, and Griffith, 30, of New York, meet for the championship in 15 rounds Friday night at the Forum. Griffith will be shooting for the title for the fourth time, a crown he abandoned when he won the middleweight championship from Tiger in 1966.

"I'm not knocking Napoles, understand. He's a good fighter, no question," Clancy continued. "But he doesn't belong yet in Emile's class. Look at Griffith's record. . .

"Including his fight with Ruben Carter?" inquired a friendly but needling inquisitor.

The reference was to the lone knockout on Griffith's record, a one-round disaster by Carter in Pittsburgh in 1963.

Griffith took it from there. "That was the best thing that ever happened to me in my career," Griffith volunteered. "It taught me I could get stopped. It taught me what it's like to be down looking up instead of up looking down."

Napoles has also been stopped once. L.C. Morran did it in three rounds on eye cuts in Mexico in 1966. Prior to that, however, Jose knocked L.C. out in three, and subsequently did it in two.

Canadiens Sign a New Center

MONTREAL (AP) — Center Judges Drouin signed with the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League Wednesday and was assigned to the Canadiens' American League farm team, the Montreal Voyageurs.

Knicks Spoil Debut of Bob Cousy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wes Unseld is picking up where he left off a year ago, but Bob Cousy is looking forward to a fresh start.

Unseld, Rookie of the Year and the Most Valuable Player in the NBA last season, scored only 10 points Wednesday night — but eight of them came in the last period to guide Baltimore to a come-from-behind 98-93 opening success over the Chicago Bulls.

The New York Knicks meanwhile came up with a closing rally to sidetrack Cincinnati 94-89 and spoil the NBA coaching debut of Cousy, former Boston Celtics star and Boston College coach.

Atlanta opened by handing Seattle its second straight loss 124-119 in the only other game scheduled.

Unseld drew four fouls during the opening period and sat on the bench during the second and third while Chicago was taking a 76-70 lead.

But his hot late shooting, along with help from Earl Monroe and Gus Johnson, powered the Bulls to an 84-79 lead with 3:47 left.

Chicago managed to cut it to 92-91 with a minute to go before Baltimore rallied again.

Monroe led the Bulls with 26 points and Johnson had 16 and 23 rebounds. Jerry Sloan scored 21 for the Bulls.

New York, picking up its second victory in as many nights, once, L.C. Morran did it in three rounds on eye cuts in Mexico in 1966. Prior to that, however, Jose knocked L.C. out in three, and subsequently did it in two.

One of the dividends from membership in the American Contract Bridge League is the monthly Bulletin. Today's hand is from an article on the Blackwood Convention written by Easley Blackwood, who is, obviously, the person most qualified to write about it.

The article is titled, "Avoiding Trouble With Voids." Easley points out that it is folly to count a void as an ace and that the prudent course for any except an experienced partnership is to ignore voids entirely in responding to Blackwood.

What should an experienced partnership do? They should simply show the correct number of aces but one level higher. Thus, six diamonds would show one ace and a void, six hearts two aces and a void, and so on.

He then adds that you must be sure that partner will identify your void suit. We are going to take slight exception here. We show a void the same way Easley does but our word is, "A void that we consider valuable."

Looking at today's hand, we see that North's six-diamond bid fits both definitions. North certainly thinks that his spade void is valuable and that South will identify it easily. North is sure that South does not hold the spade ace, because South might well have stopped to make a three-spade cue bid over North's three hearts.

As for South, he has a cinch to identify the void as being in spades. West has bid clubs. If, by some miracle, North was void of clubs, the chances are that he would merely have bid five diamonds and not confused matters by showing the void. So, South bids seven hearts and chalks up the grand slam.

held a 52-42 halftime command before the scrambling Royals slapped on a full court press in the third period. The Royals forced four quick turnovers and Tom Van Arsdale hit four baskets as Cincinnati took a 65-64 lead heading into the final session.

But Cazzie Russell kept the Knicks alive with nine points in the fourth quarter, and in the final minute Willis Reed's first basket gave New York an 89-88 lead.

Dave Debusschere's jump shot, Reed's field goal and a free throw by Walt Frazier then put it out of reach.

Atlanta had a 112-87 advantage with 7:02 left when Coach Richie Guerin went to his bench and Sealtre suddenly got behind John Tresvant and Bob Rule, trimming the lead to 118-115 with less than two minutes left.

Our Daily Bread

Sliced Thin by The Editor
Alan. W. Washburn
Wynnewood Letter
Star's Birthday
Vol. 71-No. 3

Editor The Star: I want to express my appreciation for the opportunity to meet with you and other business leaders of Hope, Ark. Also, thank you for the writeup and the picture (Star of Oct. 3). I did not expect such treatment.

I was very impressed with Crit Stuart and the other people in Hope. Before long, we hope to make the improvements I mentioned. I have given our engineering department the authority to move forward on the project.

Incidentally, this letter is written on Forrest Industries, Ltd., stationery. I am president of this company as well as president of Wynnewood and executive vice-president of Permacon Corp. Yours very truly

On Tuesday, Oct. 14, Hope Star was 70 years old—a birthday I knew about because of previous arrangements with the shop to change the folio line to Vol. 71, No. 1, but which I forgot to mention in this column.

All newspapers make the computation as one volume per year, with the issues numbered in the volume. Today's folio line, for instance, reads "Vol. 71—No. 3"—meaning this is the 3rd issue of our 71st year.

In actual practice, however, the one-volume-per-year idea is phoney. Volume 70 ended Monday, Oct. 13, with a total of 311 issues, an average issue being about 10 pages making a total of approximately 3,110 standard size newspaper pages—obviously too big a book to be practical. Therefore the year has been bound in the past in four separate volumes.

But no longer. As the big books multiplied we ran out of space in our fireproof vault. Therefore when we installed our new offset printing plant we switched from bound files to microfilm files, viewed under a projector open to public use in our office. You find the proper issue date, then locate the page on which the wanted item appears, and it is reproduced in original size on the projection screen. You can copy the item for free, or for a fee may have our Dallas microfilm people furnish you with a photo reproduction of the entire page, or even the entire newspaper.

But even with microfilm an entire year's issue would make too bulky a reel, so microfilm follows the same practice that the old bookbinder used—the year is broken down into four three-month reels, each identified by date labels.

Hope Star was founded as the weekly Star of Hope Oct. 14, 1899, by the late Claude McCorkle, father of the late Ed. McCorkle, who converted it to a daily Jan. 1, 1920. It was bought Jan. 18, 1929, and consolidated with D.A. Gean's morning Daily Press as the evening daily Hope Star, by the late C.E. Palmer of Texarkana, and your editor—now the controlling stockholder of Star Publishing Co.

Lodge Suprised at Private Talks Proposal

By MORRIS ROSENBERG
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said today "the other side" in the Vietnam peace negotiations had made a surprise proposal that "the U.S. engage in direct and private talks with the delegates on the self-styled PRG (Provisional Revolutionary Government-Viet Cong)."

Lodge, talking to reporters after the 38th plenary meeting, issued a prepared statement containing this reply to the other side's proposal: "As far as we are concerned, we are ready and willing to carry on private and direct talks in which all those represented on each side of these meetings will participate."

Lodge, who returned to Paris this week after receiving instructions from President Nixon on the negotiations, used the word "surprise" in referring to the proposal.

Against Meet of Legislature

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — State Reps. Ode Maddox of Oden and Ray Smith Jr. of Hot Springs said Wednesday a special legislative session would be a waste of money.

Secretary of Lewisville Chambers; C. C. Carlton, Representative of Pike and Howard Counties; Gladys Martin Oglesby, Lafayette County Representative and George Frazier, President of the Hope and Hempstead Chamber.

Back Row: Mayor Bill Holliday of Nashville; Charles Trammell, President of the Ashdown Chamber; Mayor Lewis Davis of Ashdown and Al Bacus, President of the Nashville Chamber. Members of the Arkansas Industrial Commission met here Wednesday and voted to again try to persuade the State Constitutional Convention to change the Amendment 49 to bond debt ceiling.

The State Constitution set a limit of five mills on taxes that local governments may levy on real and personal property in financing bond issues for industrial development.

The convention's proposal for a new constitution doesn't move the ceiling, but the convention delegates meet again in January to review the proposed constitution. The AIDC hopes to get action then to raise or remove the ceiling.

The group had lunch at Hope Country Club, visited Red River Vocational Technical School and Hempstead Industries, Inc. while here.

Foes of Moratorium Also React, Leaders Vow 2nd Demonstration

AP News Digest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Moratorium was all its designers had hoped it to be, it was the fulfillment of a dream, yet Herbert G. Klein, President Nixon's director of communications said, "I don't think the President can be affected by a mass demonstration of any kind."

Every state had some form of protest Wednesday and more than one million people, most of them young, may have participated. Opponents of the Vietnam Moratorium Day displayed the American flag and drove with headlights on.

There were isolated reports of disorders amid the many activities centered on the moratorium slogan: "Bring home the troops. All the troops. Now!" Many protests included reading the names of war dead.

When it was over, a spokesman for President Nixon said in Washington, "I don't think the President can be affected by a mass demonstration of any kind."

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of communications, said Wednesday night, "It's also true and clear to the President that a vast majority of the American people are supporting his policy."

But a coordinator of the moratorium, Sam Brown, said in Washington, "If there is no change in Vietnam policy, if the

Russia Brings Down 1 of 3 Space Ships

MOSCOW (AP)—Soyuz 6 and the two cosmonauts aboard it returned safely to earth today after testing several types of experimental welding techniques in space, Radio Moscow announced.

The announcement said the first of the three spaceships sent up last weekend made a soft landing in a "preset area" at 12:52 p.m.—5:52 a.m. EDT—100 miles northwest of Karaganda.

The two cosmonauts "feel fine," the announcement said. The return to earth of Soyuz 6 left two manned spaceships and five cosmonauts still in orbit.

The welding experiment was the chief business announced so far for the troika flight. With it the Soviet spacemen sought to determine the best method of putting together the permanent space stations which the Soviets plan to assemble.

The welding was done in a de-pressurized compartment of the ship in conditions of high vacuum, Tass said.

It was the first time orbiting spacemen have attempted to weld metals together.

The other two orbiting spaceships and the five cosmonauts manning them took no part in the welding experiments.

Hempstead County Singing Convention will be held at Avery's Chapel Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 18-19. Singing begins at 7:30 Saturday night and Sunday at 10:30 a.m. Harold Duke is president of the organization.

"Ghosts," a play by Henrik Ibsen, will be staged at Henderson State College on October 23-24 by the speech and literature department. The cast includes Jo Ellen Houser of Blevins who plays the role of Regina.

Bill McClendon, representative of Aetna Life and Casualty at Lewisville, has qualified for the firm's leader's seminar because of outstanding sales this year. He will participate on a four-day meet at the Hartford Hilton Hotel, Hartford, Conn. in February 1970. Mr. McClendon has also won membership in the 1970 Corps of Regionnaires, the company's leading producers group. He will be awarded a citation at the convention at Jackson Lake Lodge, Jackson Hole, Wyoming June 4-7 next year.

Moratorium Won't Affect U.S. Policy

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Moratorium was all its designers had hoped it to be, it was the fulfillment of a dream, and yet the man who speaks for Richard Nixon said: "I don't think the President can be affected by a mass demonstration of any kind."

By the thousands, they had ringed the White House with their candlelight, silently and peaceably demanding a end right now to the war that had killed nearly 40,000 of their contemporaries.

And Herbert G. Klein, President Nixon's director of communications, said amicably:

"It's also true and clear to the President that a vast majority of the American people are supporting his policy."

Jubilant, 26-year-old Sam Brown, who had conceived Vietnam Moratorium Day in the first place, said, "If there's no change in the Vietnam policy, if the President does not respond, there will be a second moratorium in November."

But after the marchers had gone home, Herb Klein said: "If the President surrenders himself to the point where he responds to demonstrations, then he's not the President the people elected."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told Congress today President Nixon's plan to wear people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls will strengthen the economy.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional reform bill modernizing creaky legislative machinery but sidestepping demands for modifications of the seniority system has been readied for House action.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed an authorization for a new copper and nickel-clad dollar coin with the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower's likeness on one side and a design "emblematic of the symbolic Apollo 11 Eagle landing on the moon" on the other.

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A pretty 17-year-old blond nursery school assistant says a kidnaper kept her terrified during a 300-mile ride up the California coast by brandishing two knives.

Blames Cruel Hoax for Death

WOMBOURN, England (AP) — A newspaper obituary said Gertrude Thomas was dead. Her mother, 67-year-old Alice McDermott, read the notice, had a heart attack and died three days later.

The obituary was a hoax. Mrs. Thomas, alive and well, said: "Whoever put that notice in the paper killed my mother. It is almost murder."

Detectives discovered the notice was telephoned to the paper by a man who asked that the bill for the announcement be sent to the Thomas family.

Lawsuits at Conway Total $701,000

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Two lawsuits filed in Circuit Court here seek $701,000 from an aerospraying firm on grounds that it sprayed herbicide that ruined livestock and pastures of two Greenbrier farmers.

Robert Ralston and Marrell Ralston, owners of a 218-acre beef cattle farm, filed the suit with T. D. Johnson and Georgia Johnson, owners of a 355-acre dairy farm.

The farms are about 10 miles north of Greenbrier. Named defendants in the suit are B. D. Henry and Myrtle Henry of Jacksonville and Claude F. Hall, Leland King and Gertrude King, all of Greenbrier.

The suit says that on May 18 or May 19 Hall's Aero Spraying Corp. did the alleged damage by showering the farms with a poisonous chemical while spraying a neighboring farm owned by the Henrys.

The chemical was a noxious, hormone-type herbicide with a high arsenic content.
